The entire business portion of this city was destroyed by fire last night, twenty-five blocks being reduced to ashes. The estimated loss is $14,000,000. The flames spread with fearful rapidity. The en were powerless. Attempts were made to check the fire by blowing up From the Pacific Hotel the fire swept across Firststreet to the frame buildings in the next block, and soon it reached the heart of the city. The block of two-story brick buildings on Riverside avenue was easily sarried away. From hear the story brick buildings on Rivorside avenue was easily carried away. ## ANOTHER REPORT

Wisch Came Earlier-A Description of Spokane and its Surroundings, HELENA, MONT., August 5.—The city of Spokane Falls, W. T., is burned to the ground by the fire which started last hight. Details of the destruction were hard to obtain this morning. The news of the virtual wiping out of the city came through the Western Union Tele graph Company's officials here. Tuey synact the telegraph office in Spokane as having been swept out of existence. Every effort was being made, they stated, to restore communication, but when success would be attained they Later information showed that forty Later information showed that forty business blocks had fallen a pre, to the fames. It was definitely assertained that the Northern Pacific depot and all the public buildings in the city were carried away in the general havoc. The first estimate received placed the loss by the configgration at thirty million dollars. the infant State of Washington. Situated on the line of the Northern Pacific road close to the Cour d'Alene mining region the city has been the site for many large industrial establishments such as smelters and kindred enterprises. Expensive public edifices had also been recently crected and the population was easily supporting two prosperous daily papers.

EVENTHING GONE.

EVERYTHING GONE. The business district of the city was in a strip between the Northern Pacific Railroad tracks and the Spokane river in a strip between the Northern Pacific Railroad tracks and the Spokane river. This strip was five squares across, and extended about seven squares in length. It was solidly built up with brick and stone structures, the cost of which varied from $25,000 to $125,000.

Ten hanking houses, five hotels, the Opera House and many wholesale establishments, doing a business estimated at haif a million dollars each day, were situated within the district described. The estimate of a $30,000,000 loss is believed here to be exaggerated. Half that amount is shought to be nearer the actual figure, assuming that the reported complete destruction of the city is correct. The population of Spokane is about 20,000. The city possessed an excellent water works, modeled after the Holly system, with a capacity of 0,000,000 gallons daily. There were no fire engines, but by the system in use five or six good streams of water could be concentrated upon any block in case of fire. The fire department was a volunteer one. As to insurance, the best information here is that no large amounts were carried. The estimated loss is $14,000,000. The fire started at 7 o'clock p. m. in a lodging-house on Railroad avenue. The fire department came on the scene quickly, but owing to a lack of water the fire quickly spread to adjoining frame buildings, and was goon beyond control. The flames jumped across the street to the Russ House and the Pacific Hotel. By this time a strong wind sprung up and it was evident the city was doomed. EXTRAORDINARY SERIES OF FIRES.

Much comment has been excited here by the extrordinary series which has been formed by conflagrations in Washington. First came the fearful disaster to Seattle, the chief city of the new state. From Seattle in the west, it seems as if the fire had traveled directly east, for Ellenburg, a flourishing inland city, was nearly destroyed within the past fortnight. Now, in the extreme east, Spokane, which next to Seattle was the principal city of the State, suffers a far worse calemity.

offer various arguments to prove that the old rate of one cent a word is as low as your company can accept without loss. I beg leave to say:

First— Your unqualified statement that "the privilege and benefits derived by your company through the "acts of Congrees are purely imaginary," and the companion assertion that your company has never "taken a atone or stick of timber, or appropriated a foot of land belonging to the Government," under such acts, are not sustained by the facts. It is an undeniable fact that the telegraph companies in according the act of 1886 and afterwards the supplementary acts, considered they were gaining special and actual benefits which fully compensated them for the low rates intended to be granted to the Government, and the e granted to the Government, and the vise supposed that they were securing ome benefits for the valuable concesground of their being post roads.

Second—As to your question of the legal power of the Postmaster General to fix the rate for Government messages, I would only remark that such a right appears to have been understood by the previous Postmaster. General as an official duty, and their exercise of the right or performance of the duty has been generally and constantly accepted and respected by the telegraph companies.

Third—As to your qualified statement that no corporations have received a rate equal to the proposed Government rate equal to the proposed Government rate of one mill a word, your statement that of one mill a word, your statement that the press associations are not corporations is hardly justified by the facts, and is not material to the question. You will not deny—indeed, one of our officials has admitted to me, that some of the press associations got their news reports the press associations got their news reports, and is one association the rate is given lower than that.

"The Department," Mr. Wharton replied, "has not been advised of the selzure of the Black Diamond or any other vessel; has no news whatever upon the subject, and therefore has no statement to make in

-MAIL AND EXPRESS ROBBERY. Train Held up by Six Masked Men-The

FORT WORTH, TEX., August 5,-At o'clock yesterday morning six masked mail and express, south bound, between Cheyenne water tank and Tascosa. Three men got on the locomotive and compelled the engineer to pull away from the passenger coaches, which had been detached by the robbers and left under guard of the other three. After going half a mile they compelled the engineer to get off the engine and bring a pick to force open the door of the express car. Express Messenger Marsh, seeing what was up, closed the door to his car and put out the lights in the car, first secreting all the express packages, but the robbers coming to the car, ordered him to open it and fired into it. The engineer hammered away with his pack until he got the door partly opened, when a torch was pushed into the opening and a revolver poked in and pointed at Marsh, who was told to open up or be killed. Marsh opened the door and three packages were stolen, but the ompelled the engineer to pull away

The rolbers then went to the mail car and compelled Route Agent Wolcott to open his oar. He had hidden all his registered matter but one letter under a sack, and turned his lights out. The robbers got the one package and then opened the mail pouches and scattered the contents over the floor. After doing the work they ordered the engineer to rut out the torch and pull out. When they left the authorities in the neighboring county were notified and are in pursuit. It is said that the total amount stolen is less than $2,000. The passengers were less than $2,000. The passengers were greatly frightened, but not one of them was molested in any way. Cheyenne is 375 miles north west from Forth Worth

THE EVIDENCE COMPLETED

In the Great Murder Trial-Important Testimony for the Defense. The Emperor's Visit-Other Foreign News

LIVERPOOL, August 5,-At the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for the murder of her ausband to-day the examination of witesses for the defense was continued. Dr. McNamara, ex-President of the Irish College of Surgeons, testified that in his opinion Mr. Maybrick's death was due to gastro-enteritis and not arsenic.

Dr. Paul, toxicologist, examiner in the Victoria University, declared that it would take months to eliminate arsenice from the system if it were taken over twice. He also thought the symptoms in the case of Mr. Maybrick accorded with those of gastro-enteritis.

A chemist testified that ladies often purchased fly papers for use as cosmotonic and the system of t Dr. McNamara, ex-President of the

Mr. Poole, ex-Mayor of Liverpool, testified that in March last Mr. Maybrick had told him that he took poisoning medicines habitually.

This concluded the evidence and Mrs. Maybrick then read her statement, In this she explained the presence of fly papers in the house by saying she had bought them for use as cosmetics. For many years she had used a cosmetic prescribed by Dr. Griggs, of Brooklyn, which contained arsenic. The had lost the prescription and wishing to make a substitute had soaked the fly papers in elder flower water and lavender water and had covered the vessel holding the mixture with a plate and towel to exclude the air.

Continuing Mrs. Maybrick said:

"On the night of May 9, after the nurse in attendance upon my husband had given him some ment juice, I went and sat by his bed. He complained of being very sick and depressed and implored me to give him a powder. Earlier in the day he had made a similar request and I had declined to administer the powder, but that evaning I was over-wrought, terribly anxious and miserably unhappy. His distress unnerved me, and as he said the powder was harmless and I could put it in his food, I consented to mix it with some meat juice which I gave to him. After taking it, deceased fell asleep and appeared better on awakening. I was not anxious to administer the powder. Afterwards I placed the bottle containing the meat juice on the wash stand, where it remained until Michael Maybrick, my brother-in-law, took possession of it. The day before my husband died I made a full confession to him of a fearful wrong I had done him and received his forgiveness."
